- Then you will be asked to read the text aloud and you will be asked questions about the text. The questions may concern the content and style of text, what happened before or what is going to happen later in the story or play, etc. You may also be asked to explain a symbol or an idiom, or to explain a grammatical expression in the text or similar matters.
- There will then be a discussion about special topics which are essential to understanding the text, the plot, the ending, the relationships between characters, their development, etc.
- A further item of interest may be the author or your choice of this work of literature: what was your reason for choosing this text?
